High School and College Preparatory

The Columbia University Home Study curriculum includes courses offering the equivalent of four years of High School study. These courses will meet the need of those who require High School and College Preparatory training but who can not conveniently undertake classroom work. Send for special bulletin.

The list above does not include all of the courses now being offered for home study. If the subject in which you are interested is not in the list, mention it when writing for information.

THE UNIVERSITY is now ready to serve men and women who can not go to college but who want the advantages of University Instruction. For several years Columbia has been developing its Home Study Department and now offers for instruction, by mail, upwards of one hundred and fifty different courses covering High School, Preparatory and College subjects. These are genuine Columbia courses, adapted to the special requirements of mail instruction, and conducted by members of the University's teaching staff who give to each home student attention that is just as personal and complete as that given to the campus student.

Every Course Adjusted to the Individual Needs of Each Student

Columbia Home Study Courses are not rigid and arbitrary common denominators for all students. While each course is planned to cover all basic material essential to a full understanding of the subject, there is sufficient elasticity to adapt it to the individual needs of each student. The instructor adjusts the course and emphasizes the proper parts of it in the light of his knowledge of the student's interests and objectives so that it may best serve the student's purpose.

Special Advantages of Home Study

While the University does not contend that home study is as desirable for certain purposes as classroom work, it recognizes that the student who can not easily adapt himself to the mechanical precision of the classroom often does better when he can analyze his problems quietly alone. For many, also, the possibility of adjusting study hours to the other demands on time and energy is a distinct advantage offered under home study conditions.

By its very nature home study must be thorough. The student prepares and submits for inspection every lesson in the course; and, whereas a classroom lecture is addressed to a large group, a letter of criticism and suggestion is addressed to the student himself and in it no one else need be considered.

Fees Payable in Convenient Amounts

For those men and women who feel a genuine desire for the benefits to be obtained through Columbia's Home Study Courses, the University wants to make registration as convenient as possible. Arrangements may be made to distribute fee payments over several months.
